

Abstract of the Disclosure

A locking electrical receptacle for receiving the spaced prongs of a male plug. The electrical receptacle has electrical contacts which engage a prong only when the prong is fully inserted in the receptacle. A locking ball is mounted for relative movement in an open slot of an moveable actuator. The open slot has a shallow section which biases the locking ball into the punched hole of the male prong.